

ReLaunch Agency Plan

Sep 28, 2026 · @Robert Clark

Overview and positioning

ReLaunch is a Phoenix marketing agency, operating since 2004, whose core principle is that every piece of marketing must sell. Every website, post, ad and brand asset carries a pitch that moves the customer toward buying.

Clients buy results, not the method. The selling framework runs behind the work; clients see more calls, leads and sales.

Positioning line (draft): ReLaunch builds marketing that sells for local businesses: the website, the content, the ads, and the systems that run them.

Three pillars support that line:

- Full-service marketing is the scope. Web, social, ads, SEO, branding and strategy come from one agency.
- AI and automation is how the work gets delivered. It keeps delivery fast and pricing competitive, with ReLaunch Social as the proof.
- Custom tech is the differentiator. ReLaunch builds platforms and tools most local agencies cannot, such as Golf Central Magazine and OptiFlow.

Target clients: mainly small and local businesses, with the deepest experience in home services and contractors, plus larger organizations such as NCCI for custom software development. Current and past clients also include a dance studio, an optometry practice, a golf publication and a screen repair company.

The ReLaunch method

Every deliverable is built on the same four-layer selling framework, the one the NIS audit scores. It is internal: clients never need to learn it.

Layer	Weight	What it does in the pitch	Where it shows up
StoryBrand SB7	35%	Customer as hero, clear problem, ReLaunch client as guide with a plan, one direct call to action	Website structure, landing pages, ad copy, headlines
Hero's Journey	30%	Sells the customer's transformation from problem to result	Social content, video, case studies, testimonials
Draper Principles	25%	One big emotional idea per campaign; sell the feeling, not the feature list	Campaign concepts, creative, taglines
Archetype Consistency	10%	One consistent brand voice and personality everywhere	Logo, visual identity, captions, every channel

Standard for every deliverable: it must name the customer's problem, present the client as the answer and ask for an action. Anything that doesn't sell doesn't ship.

Sales brief. Every engagement starts with an internal one-page sales brief: the customer (hero), their problem, the big idea, the archetype and the call to action. ReLaunch writes it; the client only approves the direction. The full NIS audit is a separate paid add-on for clients who want the complete diagnosis.

ReLaunch's own sales brief

ReLaunch is its own first client. This brief is the blueprint for relaunch.us: the site must make each prospect see their problem, know ReLaunch can solve it, and take one step toward hiring ReLaunch.

Two heroes, two doors. The website needs one path for each.

	Local business owner (primary)	Larger organization (software)
Example	Home service company, contractor, studio, practice	Organizations like NCCI
What they want	More calls, customers and sales	Custom software that works and ships on time

	Local business owner (primary)	Larger organization (software)
External problem	Marketing isn't bringing in customers	Backlog, outdated systems, projects too slow or costly with big firms
Internal problem	No time, burned by past agencies, unsure what works	Needs a builder who understands the business outcome, not just the code
What's at stake	Losing customers to competitors who market better; wasted spend	Missed goals, stalled operations, budget spent on tools nobody uses
Success looks like	The phone rings; marketing pays for itself	A working platform, delivered, adopted and supported
Call to action	Get a free marketing grade (NIS grader) or book a call	Discuss your project

The guide. ReLaunch shows empathy ("we know what it's like to need customers, not just marketing") and authority: in business since 2004, and proven builds such as a 25,502-document EHR migration, the Golf Central Magazine platform and the ReLaunch Social system.

The plan (three steps shown on the site):

1. Talk to us or get your free marketing grade.
2. We build your pitch and the plan to deliver it.
3. We launch it and keep it selling.

Big idea (draft): Marketing that sells. Every piece ReLaunch makes has one job: bring the client business.

Voice: the guide. Experienced, confident, plain and direct. No hype; the client's results are the headline, not ReLaunch.

What the website must do

Prospects must...	The site shows it through
See their problem	A problem section in the customer's words, above the fold or right after it
Know ReLaunch can solve it	Results, case studies, testimonials, years in business, the builds above

Prospects must...	The site shows it through
Know what to do next	The three-step plan and one repeated call to action per door
Act	Free NIS grader and booking for local businesses; project inquiry for larger organizations

Service lines

Eight service lines, split between core marketing (recurring, repeatable) and advanced tech (higher-ticket, project-based). Each one carries the pitch in its own way.

Service	Group	What's included	How it sells	Pricing model	Primary delivery
Websites and hosting	Core	Design, build, copy, launch; hosting and maintenance on the IONOS VPS	Every page follows SB7 and ends in one clear call to action	Project fee + monthly hosting/care plan	Robert + AI; contractor for overflow design
Social media and content	Core	ReLaunch Social: social media audit, automatic posting (Track A and B), Social Savannah AI video ads	Posts tell the customer's transformation and point to an action	Posting $297 to $1,497/mo; audit and Savannah pricing to be set	AI + automation; human review on Command
Paid ads, SEO and local listings	Core	Meta and Google ads, local SEO, Google Business Profile, NAP cleanup, reporting	Ads lead with the problem and the big idea; listings convert searchers to calls	Monthly management fee, ad spend billed separately	Robert + automation; contractor for scale
Branding and design	Core	Logo, brand identity, print and signage, brand guidelines	Identity is built on one archetype so every asset reinforces the pitch	Project fee	Robert + contract designers
Custom software and platforms	Advanced	Client portals, web apps, data migrations, internal tools (Base44, React, Python)	Tools shorten the path from lead to sale or keep customers buying	Scoped project + optional support retainer	Robert

Service	Group	What's included	How it sells	Pricing model	Primary delivery
AI automation and lead-gen systems	Advanced	Automated workflows (Zapier, Base44), lead pipelines, AI content systems	Systems capture and follow up on every lead automatically	Setup fee + monthly run fee	Robert + AI
NIS sales audit (add-on)	Advanced	Four-layer NIS score, gap analysis, recommendations across online and offline channels	Shows where the client's current marketing fails to sell	Free grader; paid full audit; done-for-you fixes	Tool-driven; Robert reviews
Strategy and consulting	Advanced	Marketing plans, proposals, competitive analysis, ongoing advisory	Builds the campaign-level pitch and the plan to deliver it	Hourly or monthly advisory retainer	Robert

Packaging and pricing

Offers are sold at three levels: a low-risk entry point, recurring retainers that carry the revenue, and projects that deepen the relationship. Only ReLaunch Social pricing is set; the other figures are open decisions below.

Level	Purpose	Offers
Entry	Start the relationship at low risk	Free NIS grader, paid NIS audit, ReLaunch Social Launch ($297/mo)
Recurring	Predictable monthly revenue	ReLaunch Social tiers, ads/SEO management, hosting and care plans, automation run fees, advisory retainer
Project	Larger one-time builds	Website builds, branding, custom software, automation setup

Bundles. A "Local Growth" bundle could package a website, a Social tier and Google Business Profile management at one monthly price. The existing bundle builder at app.relaunch.us could sell it.

ReLaunch Social is the social sub-brand, with three offers:

Offer	What it is	Pricing
Social media audit	Diagnoses how well a business's social presence sells	To be set
Automatic posting	Track A (client supplies content): Launch $297, Presence $497, Velocity $797. Track B (ReLaunch creates content): Ignite $597, Amplify $997, Command $1,497	$297 to $1,497/mo
Social Savannah	AI ad-creative agency: weekly AI video ads for Meta and TikTok, produced, delivered and improved from performance data	To be set

Social Savannah model

Three workflows, mostly automated:

- 1. Weekly creative production (about 90% automated): brand intelligence, AI scripts and angles, AI actor video, voice, programmatic editing, multi-ratio renders with captions, QA, client delivery.
- 2. Creator whitelisting (known constraint): AI actors can't run as TikTok Spark Ads or Meta Partnership Ads. AI creative runs as standard in-feed ads from the brand's own page. An optional hybrid adds a small real-creator roster only for whitelisting.
- 3. Reporting and iteration (about 85% automated): winning creative attributes feed the next cycle's scripts.

Compliance is built in: TikTok AIGC labels, Meta AI disclosure, FTC risk on AI actors in testimonial-style claims, the NY Synthetic Performer Law, the EU AI Act, and actor and music licensing.

Tech stack: Arcads or Creatify (AI actors), ElevenLabs (voice), JSON2Video or Creatomate (editing and render), Motion (analytics), Frame.io (delivery), Meta and TikTok Marketing APIs (publishing).

Status: the end-to-end plan is done. The build runs as a 12-week phased rollout: manual MVP validation, factory automation, closed-loop iteration, then scaled client acquisition.

Pricing rule already in use: ad spend is billed separately from ReLaunch's management fee.

Delivery model

Delivery is mixed by service. Robert keeps strategy, tech builds and client relationships; AI and automation carry repeatable production; contractors absorb design and overflow.

Who	Owns
Robert	Sales briefs, strategy, selling new clients, custom software, automation builds, final pitch review of every deliverable
AI and automation	Social content drafts, scheduling, intake, reporting, NIS scoring
Contractors	Brand and graphic design, photo and video, overflow web and ad work

Current tool stack

- Base44: client portals, internal tools, NIS audit tool
- Zapier: intake and onboarding automations
- Metricool: social scheduling and publishing
- Stripe: subscription payments
- IONOS VPS (Plesk): client website hosting
- Claude: content generation and build support

Capacity check. Social work is sized at about 30 minutes per Track A client and 1 to 2 hours per Track B client each month. Custom software and strategy are the bottleneck, because they depend on Robert's time.

Client journey

Every client moves through the same six steps, and each service can lead into the next.

1. Lead. The client arrives through the free NIS grader, ReLaunch Social's self-serve signup, referrals or lead-gen systems such as the Maricopa permit pipeline.
2. Optional audit. Clients who want the full diagnosis buy the NIS sales audit. It prices in the fixes.
3. Sales brief. ReLaunch writes the one-page brief: hero, problem, big idea, archetype, call to action.

4. Build. The pitch goes into the first deliverable, usually a website, brand or campaign.
5. Run. Recurring services keep the pitch in market: Social, ads, SEO and automation.
6. Report and expand. Reports show results in plain numbers. Gaps become the next service: a Social client gets a website, a website client gets ads.

The brief from step 3 carries across every later service, so messaging stays consistent as the client grows.

Growth plan

Growth over the next 12 months comes from three engines built in balance: recurring retainers, larger projects and ReLaunch Social subscriptions. Revenue and client-count targets are still to be set (Open decisions).

Engine	What it sells	Where clients come from	Role in growth
Retainers	Ads and SEO management, care plans, automation run fees, advisory	NIS grader leads, referrals, upsell from project clients, Maricopa permit pipeline for contractors	Steady monthly base
Projects	Websites, branding, custom software	relaunch.us, sales brief conversations, the software door for larger organizations	Larger one-time revenue and new relationships
ReLaunch Social	Social audit, six posting tiers ($297 to $1,497/mo), Social Savannah AI video ads	social.relaunch.us self-serve signup, relaunch.us homepage section	Low-touch recurring revenue at volume

How the engines feed each other. A project client moves onto a retainer. A Social subscriber upgrades to a website or ads. An NIS audit turns into a project and a retainer.

Enterprise software track. Larger organizations buy through proof and relationships, not a web form. This track needs:

- A dedicated software page with case studies of completed builds
- Direct outreach and referrals to decision-makers at target organizations
- A standard discovery call, scoped proposal and support retainer

Priorities, in order

1. Finalize this brief and hand it to the website designer.
2. Launch the NIS grader as the main lead magnet.
3. Package case studies from completed client work.
4. Turn on lead generation: grader, permit pipeline, referral asks.
5. Start outreach for the enterprise software track.

Open decisions

- ☐ Official agency name: "ReLaunch," "ReLaunch Marketing & Advertising" or "ReLaunch Advertising"
- ☐ Pricing for every line except ReLaunch Social: website builds, care plans, ads management, branding, software, automation, NIS audit, advisory
- ☐ Target vertical: lead with home services and contractors, or stay broad across local businesses
- ☐ Does the sales brief stay fully internal, or become a named deliverable clients sign off on?
- ☐ Which contractors cover design, photo and video, and overflow work
- ☐ Whether to build the "Local Growth" bundle and sell it through app.relaunch.us
- ☐ 12-month targets: revenue, retainer count, Social subscribers, projects
- ☐ Client permission to use completed builds (EHR migration, Golf Central, others) as case studies
- ☐ Final big idea and headline for relaunch.us ("Marketing that sells" is a draft)
- ☐ ReLaunch Social: scope and pricing of the social media audit, and Social Savannah pricing
- ☐ Social Savannah: orchestration (n8n or Make), state database (Airtable or Supabase), and whether to add the hybrid real-creator roster
